The same containers on both sides

The network in this story backs Democrats and moderate Republicans. The network on the right backs Freedom Caucus candidates. Row by row, the structures match.

The network in this story		The Freedom Caucus network
Western Futures Fund Sheridan 501(c)(4). $8.7 million in and $6.8 million out in 2024.	A nonprofit that names no donors	State Freedom Caucus Network Washington, D.C. Calls itself “a privately funded organization.”
Way Back PAC Gave the Teton slate $5,500. 99.4% of its spending left Wyoming.	A federal PAC funded by an organization	Make Liberty Win Virginia-based. Spent $549,000 in Wyoming legislative races; its Wyoming report lists four contributions, all from itself.
Wyoming Way PAC Seven-eighths of its money came from Western Futures.	A Wyoming PAC the network feeds	WY Freedom PAC $165,000 of its $296,500 came from the State Freedom Caucus Network.
Better Wyoming Laramie charity with $1.02 million from the Storer Foundation. Its 501(c)(4) arm took $30,000 from Western Futures.	A charity beside a political arm	Wyoming Liberty Group Cheyenne charity funded largely by Susan Gore. Shares staff and offices with Republic Free Choice, whose donors were never reported.

Same rules, same containers. Wyoming’s disclosure law covers both networks.

Sources: IRS Form 990, FEC and Wyoming Secretary of State filings for Western Futures, Way Back PAC and Wyoming Way PAC; WyoFile, Oct. 16, 2026, and the Make Liberty Win Wyoming report; WY Freedom PAC figures as reported by Cowboy State Daily; IRS filings for the Wyoming Liberty Group.